Yes, according to Petaluma PD, the only illegal firearm was the assault pistol.

I am not a firearms expert, however from reading Petaluma's crime report many items were seized from Marlowe's residence. Are all of these items with the exception of the assault pistol, legal to own? If so, how was that determination made?

Sgt. Stewart,

I can provide any documents that would be available as public records. As such, here is the felony complaint on the firearms charges.

For the domestic violence charge, the Petaluma PD complaint review form only listed the firearms charges and not the DV charges. Regardless, because he was arrested for a PC 236, we reviewed the case for that charge and declined to file based on insufficient evidence.

Feel free to email me with any other questions or concerns.

Best,
Scott

Hello,

Would it be possible to get a copy of the firearm complaint and any dispo documentation (reasoning for no complaint filed) for the domestic violence allegations emailed to me?

Sgt. Stewart,

Mr. Brown forwarded me your email below regarding Adam Marlowe because I am the DA reviewing the case. I FI'ed the case earlier this week because Petaluma PD submitted a search warrant last week for some additional investigation. I'd like to see what we get from that search warrant before making a final decision on whether to file charges. As of now, we do not plan on filing any charges related to the domestic violence allegations and are only looking at the various firearms related offenses. I am hopeful the return on the search warrant and any supplemental reports will be referred back to my office within 3 weeks or so and I can complete my review.

Please feel free to contact me with any other questions or concerns.

Best,
Scott

Mr. Brown,

I am conducting an Internal Affairs investigation into the circumstances surrounding this case. I understand this matter has been continued until 3/21/23.

Could you tell me the reason for the delay in filing criminal charges, whether you anticipate filing charges and whether the DA's office is requesting additional criminal investigation into this matter? This information will assist me with determining how to proceed on my end.

Thank you,

Sgt Rick Stewart
