Reference Points

The incident occurred in the area of [redacted], [redacted] known as Franz Creek. The scene was located in the wilderness terrain that lacked fixed references like buildings, curbs, lights, and/or signs posts. Two large trees that were readily visible in the photographs were used as reference points. The trees were marked with a black Sharpie "A" (approx. [redacted]) and "B" (approx. [redacted]). Tree A was located on the east side of the creek bed. Tree B was located on the east side of the creek bed, approximately 17'8" northeast of Tree A.

Arcs were drawn from reference points on Tree A and Tree B to the item of interest. The intersection of those arcs was measured to give the distances for each item, including the body.
